ABOUT

With over a decade of workers' compensation litigation experience, Chris is a strong and approachable representative for injured workers, employers and insurers, handling diverse clients with equal care. As a Shareholder with Brown & Carlson, he fosters a cooperative environment among team members to ensure that clients receive efficient and effective legal representation. Known for his responsive communication style, Chris builds strong relationships, making complex legal matters more manageable and obtaining favorable outcomes for clients more likely.

In his free time, Chris can be found in the kitchen, traveling, rooting for the Vikings and spending time with friends and family. Most of all, he revels in the adventure of keeping his young daughter entertained.
